

Machine Learning enables computers to learn from data without being explicitly programmed.

Supervised learning uses labeled data, while unsupervised learning works with unlabeled data.

Common algorithms include linear regression, decision trees, and neural networks.